PRICE TWO CENTS

2 INJURED WHEN AUTO PLUNGES INTO MILL RACE

Driver, While Lighting
Cigarette, Loses Control of Automobile and Car Drops Into Mill Race.

Two of six occupants of a large touring car were injured when the driver, losing control, it is said, as he was lighting a cigarette, allowed the machine to go over a ten-foot embankment and plunge into four feet of water, at Hartman's mill race, on the Abbottstown-Hanover road, two miles from the former place, at 5:40 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Injured Parties
The injured are: Miss Alva Miller and a Miss Metzgar, both of whom had arrived in Hanover from New York City a short time before the accident, and were en route to C. E. Miller's cottage at Dick's Dam.

Miss Miller, who was pinned under the car, suffered contusions on the left leg, and Miss Metzgar suffered contusions on the left shoulder and a sprained ankle.

Other occupants of the touring car, which is the property of C. E. Miller, McSherrytown, and which was being driven by his son, Augustus E. Miller, were Mrs. C. E. Miller, Mrs. John Kinneman, a daughter, and a Mr. Julian, of New York City.

Received Attention
William Hartman, owner of the mill, his son-in-law, Paul Group, and a worker in the mill, Earl Cooley, upon hearing the crash, from Mr. Miller's home, only about 150 feet distant, rushed to the scene and aided passersby in extricating the occupants of the car from the wreck.

Dr. H. F. Goeken, New Oxford, a passerby, rendered first aid and a call was sent in for the Hanover ambulance. The ambulance, however, was out on another call, and before it reached the scene of the accident the party was taken to the office of Dr. Ira Z. Wentz, Hanover, who dressed the injuries. The party was later taken to McSherrytown, where the family physician, Dr. M. J. Brennan, attended them.

LeRoy B. Stokes, of the Stokes garage, Hanover, went to the scene of the smashup and was working on removing the car from the mill race, when darkness overtook him, and he was forced to leave car in the water until this morning. The car, Mr. Stokes said, is not badly damaged. The top is broken, fender bent, one door broken off and the muffler torn off.

The news of the accident spread quickly, with the result that hundreds of machines made traffic a problem at the place.

PLAN TO ENLARGE FURNITURE PLANT

Improvements to Include Two New Buildings; Other Construction Work Booms Gettysburg.

Enlargement of the local furniture factories, including extensive building improvements to the Reaser Furniture Company offices and the erection of two large two-story buildings, one with a large wing, to the plant of the Gettysburg Furniture Company, is included in the building program now in progress in the county seat.

A large number of residences are also in course of erection in town and recent building permits issued by Burgess W. E. Olinger call for still further building operations.

Enlarge Vault Space
The vault space of the furniture factory office building is being enlarged and the second floor of the building is being remodeled to provide additional quarters for clerical departments.

Excavation has already been started for the erection of several buildings for the Gettysburg Furniture Company. One of these will be two-story, 60x190 feet, and another will also be two-story, 60x140 feet, with a wing 50x35 feet, it is announced by M. C. Jones, general manager of the local factories. Both will be brick.

The additional floor space is required for the handling and storing of more stock and better equalization of the various departments of the plants, Mr. Jones stated. Some of the departments have been handicapped by the lack of proper working space.

Building permits issued recently by Burgess W. E. Olinger were to the following: W. A. Hennig, garage, York street; William Timmins, brick dwelling, Buford avenue; E. C. HELPS STORK 3 TIMES, ONE DAY

Abbottstown Physician Has Unusually Busy Day; Accidents Keep Doctor Working Overtime.

An unusual 24 hours of business was that of Dr. T. C. Miller, Abbottstown, on Tuesday. In that time he dressed the injuries of three men, all hurt in accidents. One man had a broken arm, another a broken leg and the other suffered a deep gash in his body, which required 16 stitches to close. M. W. Miller, graduate of Gettysburg College, now a medical student at Tulane University, New Orleans, Louisiana, who is home on a vacation, assisted his father.

The first accident occurred late Monday night when the doctor reduced a simple fracture of the right forearm of Paul Shultz, Hamilton township, which Shultz suffered when the crank of an automobile backfired. When a tree, which he was bending over, snapped off at the base, Tuesday, John E. Myers, aged about 25 years, Hamilton township, suffered a fracture of the right leg below the knee. A small bone at the knee cap was also dislocated. He was working in the Bala orchards when the accident occurred. While his condition is not serious, he is suffering great pain.

The third accident occurred late Tuesday afternoon, when a tractor which Frank Feeser, Tyrone township, was backing refused to stop, with the result that the machine ran into a self feeder, which ripped a large hole in his body. The hole is two inches in depth, tearing muscles, and is fully two and one-half inches in diameter. Mr. Feeser is also suffering intensely from his wound. This is not all the physician has been doing, however. On Saturday he brought three children into the world. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. Clair Dubbs, Menges Mills; a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Baublitz, Jackson township, and a son to Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Laughman, also of Jackson township.

They were accompanied by Miss Roberta Deardorff.

---And the Old Wood Stable "Ain't What She Used to Be"

Like the "wonderful one hoss shay, that ran a hundred years to the day" and then suddenly went to pieces was the old stable on the lot at the rear of the Gettysburg Hotel.

Just twenty minutes after John N. Lightner, a carpenter, quit work on the razing of the old stable Tuesday afternoon, there was a cracking of joints and a roar as the timbers gave way and the structure collapsed.

Persons who were working in the vicinity of the building rushed to the pile of debris, anxiously waiting for the cloud of dust which the collapse occasioned to lift, to determine whether workmen were caught under the fall of heavy timbers and bricks.

Fortunately Mr. Lightner had a premonition during the afternoon that the building could not stand much longer and decided to quit work a little earlier than usual.

During the day stalls in the stable, which for years before the advent of the automobile had been used for the accommodation of horses of travellers putting up at the Hotel Gettysburg,

DR. EUGENE ELGIN NAMES DEPUTIES

Dr. Henry Stewart Here Is Authorized to Revaccinate
Children Free of Charge
In Certain Cases.

Dr. Eugene Elgin, of East Berlin, county medical director, has been notified by the state secretary of health, Dr. Charles H. Miner, that the following physicians in Adams county have been appointed as his official deputies to revaccinate, free of charge, school children who have undergone two or more unsuccessful attempts at vaccination against smallpox. The appointees are:

Dr. Henry Stewart, Gettysburg; Dr. W. E. Wolff, Arendtsville; Dr. W. F. Hollinger, Abbottstown; Dr. George L. Rice, McSherrytown; Dr. Ira Henderson, Fairfield, and Dr. C. L. Myers, York Springs.

School children living in the rural districts who have been twice unsuccessfully vaccinated or those who had been admitted to school last term on an official temporary certificate must be revaccinated by the county medical director, or one of these official deputies, who will grant the temporary certificate which will admit them to school for the current school year. In cities, boroughs or townships of the first class having organized boards of health, this official revaccination must be performed by the board of health physician.

Must Show Certificate
Teachers or school principals are not allowed to admit children to school unless they present or have already filed a certificate of successful vaccination, or in the case of unsuccessful results the official temporary certificate, which must have been issued since June 1, at which time temporary certificates issued during the previous school term became void.

The county medical director has pointed out the fact that school teachers must be careful in demanding proper vaccination certificates. A (Continued on Fourth Page.)

An X-ray examination at the hospital revealed that one of the bones of the posterior arch of the foot was broken. He was also badly contused on his back and ankle.

LAWYERS CLASH ON LEGAL ISSUE IN FRANKS' CASE

State's Attorney Crowe
Objects to Testimony
Relating to Mental Responsibility of
Two Slayers.

(By Associated Press.)
Chicago, July 30.—The stiff legal fight by attorneys for Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed murderers of Robert Franks, to save them from the gallows broke out in Judge John R. Caverly's court today. The engagement opened when Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, after resting his own case, sought to shut off all testimony by defense alienists, relating to the mental responsibilities of the two youthful defendants.

Court recessed for luncheon at 12:30 o'clock, with the argument unfinished.

Will Be Overruled
Crowe maintained that the plea of guilty prevented the defense from showing any state of mind as a mitigation of punishment and with his assistants continued the argument throughout the morning session, even though Judge Caverly said he would overrule the objection.

The defense told the judge that they had a right to show that mentality had figured in the circumstances of the crime and the court indicated that he agreed with them.

The judge said, however, that no opportunity remained for an offer of insanity as a legal defense, and that he would not permit such testimony to be introduced. When the dispute reached a squabbling stage, Crowe said to the court:

Alienist Called
"If you hear evidence as to insanity and then sentence those men to life imprisonment and they then appeal to the supreme court I will confess error."

"I don't care what you gentlemen do with this case when I get through it," retorted the judge.

Frank A. Sheer was the last witness for the state this morning. He testified merely that he took Loeb's confession the night of May 30.

The defense then called as its first witness Dr. William A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington. Dr. White was on the stand, while the legal argument continued throughout the morning.

IN AGAIN, OUT AGAIN, GONE AGAIN, PEGGY JOYCE

(By Associated Press.)
New York, July 30.—A suit against her for annulment of her marriage, a countersuit by her for separation and testimony as a witness in the trial of a prominent lawyer for alleged bribery of a juror figured in the case yesterday of Countess Gosta Morner, formerly Peggy Hopkins Joyce, show girl and former wife of two millionaires.

The countess first attracted a crowded courtroom when she appeared as a witness for the government in the trial of William J. Fallon for the bribery of Charles Rendigs in a mail fraud case in 1922.

When the countess left the spotlight of the courtroom through the judge's chambers to step immediately into a part that focused more attention to her than her previous role, she found an attorney waiting for her to serve papers in a suit for annulment by her husband. She hurried to her own lawyers and immediately drew up papers for a counter suit which also asked for the recovery of $10,000, which she alleged she had spent on the count in their brief married life.

Count Morner declared that she never spent the money on him, but that he had sacrificed his business for her and finally had filed the suit in desperation after she had not appeared at home for more than 24 hours.

Gap, Pa., July 30.—In one of the strangest settings for a murder hearing, at what was like a family reunion, Benjamin F. Dorsheimer, well-to-do realtor of Atlantic City, and his brother, Chester A., secretary of a York manufacturing concern, were held for court without bail here late yesterday afternoon by Magistrate C. A. Filler on charges of slaying their parents fourteen years ago.

Testimony was heard during the hearing from six members of the family.

Counsel for the defendants announced that habeas corpus proceedings for their release would be filed today in the Lancaster county court, and that a hearing probably would be held Friday or Saturday.

Gap, Pa., July 30.—Facing his two brothers, Benjamin F. and Chester A. Dorsheimer, Tuesday afternoon at a hearing before Justice of the Peace C. A. Diller, held in the home occupied some years ago by Benjamin Dorsheimer, Frank Dorsheimer Tuesday told in detail the alleged confessions made to him by his two brothers, whom he charges with murdering their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dorsheimer, more than fourteen years ago.

After a sister of the accused men outlined the finding of the bodies, locked in a room at the home of their parents, on April 16, 1910, and after the testimony of two physicians who disinterred the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Dorsheimer several years ago and examined them for possible signs of violence, the crowded "parlor" which constitutes the court at the home of Justice Diller was electrified when Frank Dorsheimer took the stand against his brothers, whom he accuses of the double murder.

BANK LOOTED OF
$17,000 IN CASH

Hold Up By Bandits of First
National Bank in Illinois
Executed in Daylight; Escape.

Highlands, Ill., July 30.—Police have found no trace of bandits who shortly after noon yesterday held up the First National Bank of this city and escaped with between $17,000 and $20,000.

Three robbers, armed and without masks, entered the bank, ordered Earl Malan, assistant cashier in charge, and two women bookkeepers, the only ones in the bank at the time, to lie on the floor while they scooped about $2,000 from the cash drawers into sacks.

Ordered Vaults Opened
They then ordered one of the women to open the vault.

"They don't know the combination," Malan explained.

"Then you get up and open it or we'll kill you," one of the bandits threatened.

Malan opened the vault, from which the men took $15,000 or more, and ran from the bank to a machine in which two or three men waited. They drove away in the direction of St. Louis, firing several shots in the air.

LAWYERS LEAD,
CLAIMS HUGHES

Secretary of State Delivers Address At Reception By Paris Bar Association to Yanks.

Paris, July 30.—Lawyers whose diplomas are sealed "by an authority of conscience which is higher than that of any government" must furnish the leadership for the democracies of the world, for "if we are true to our profession we are the apostles of progress," Secretary of State Hughes declared at the reception by the Paris Bar Association of the American lawyers who are visiting Paris.

Mr. Hughes, as president of the American Bar Association, thanked the French bar for its invitation to the American lawyers and for its hospitality.

Speaking as a lawyer to lawyers, he emphasized the need of democracy of "the expert service of lawyers of broad vision, of those who are trained in the law but are neither overwhelmed by their training, nor governed by its technicalities."

"Our systems of law are unlike in some respects," Mr. Hughes told his French colleagues. "Our methods of administration present certain striking differences, but our sense of unity of purpose is so profound that these differences merely excite sympathy, interest and a desire to understand their historic causes and effects."

SENATOR RIDES
MAN ON BUMPER

Arkansas Solen Runs Into Obstreperous Motorist, Slaps His Face and Then "Insults" Him.

Washington, July 30.—Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, conceded Tuesday that newspaper reports of his encounter Sunday with G. E. Clarke, of New York, after a collision of their automobiles, near Ellenville, N. Y., was accurate, save that he did not apologize.

Mr. Clarke, the Senator said, bumped into the Caraway car, upbraided the Senator's son, who was at the wheel, contending that he had failed to signal; demanded $10 to pay for a bent fender; pursued the Caraway family into Ellenville, and there planted himself before the automobile and declined to budge.

Says It Was Low Comedy
"I jumped out of the rear seat and took the wheel," the Senator said, "and then I bumped into him. It's too bad there wasn't a motion-picture camera around. It would have furnished some good low comedy. He evidently didn't think I would drive into him. He turned around, sat down on the bumper, rather sprawled out and I carried him half way across the street. Then he jumped up and turned off the ignition."

"I opened a jack-knife, intending to use it on his fingers if he tried to do it again."

"The next thing he did was to jump on the running board. I took him by the neck with one hand and slapped him as hard as I could with the other. By that time a policeman came."

They all went to the office of former Judge William Cunningham, of the Court of Claims, who ended the episode by getting both to depart in peace.

"As I came out," the Senator said, "I told Clarke privately what my opinion of him was, and if he considered that an apology I don't know how you could insult him."

Other Pugnacious Incidents
Since it was only a few weeks ago that Senator Robinson blackened the eye of Dr. James F. Mitchell on the golf links of the Chevy Chase Club both Senators from Arkansas were swamped with proposals Tuesday for a bout between them.

About a year ago Mr. Caraway had an umbrella duel outside the Shoreham Hotel. His opponent went down for the count. The trouble started in a street car and ended in court when the vanquished sued, but never pressed his case.

"I hope a wrong impression of Arkansas won't get abroad," lamented Mr. Caraway. "Honestly we are a mild people. These things just happened to happen."

THE SILLY SEASON

"Beauty" competitions are at their height. Washington has one on, and the girls who think themselves "pretty" are posing for pictures, generally of the Police Gazette type. The regularity of teeth, lips, cheeks, and chin do not constitute real beauty. Nor do golden or black locks, shapely forms, or brilliant eyes. Those are things that may be soulfully drawn upon paper and colored with rainbow tints, but they are only art. It is the soul shining through it all that gives these real beauty, and there can be very little soul in those who thus publicly proclaim their own beauty in tights.

One year the "rare" beauty chosen had about as much mind as a caterpillar, a fifth-grade education, and the vocabulary of an alley kid. She chewed gum incessantly, but was a beauty, and no mistake. The judges seemed to take no thought for character, for education, for spiritual growth, for culture, or refinement. They seek contour and coloring, and this is easy to obtain among the class of girls who powder and rouge their faces in public places and use their lip sticks ad libitum. The utter poise of these and their self-consciousness almost bowl over an old stager.

There can be no real beauty unaccompanied by a spirit of culture, education and refinement. If one follows up the successful contestants in these "beauty" contests it will be found that the poor little women immediately try to get into the "Follies" or the movies—and largely fail because back of the regularity of feature and rich coloring there is lack of brains to help them out in the rigorous training necessary for success in any calling, and they fail utterly.

TRAINING

Let me not walk the way
Head high and blindly,
Let me go through today
Bravely and kindly;
I have been taught the truth
Well do I know it—
Trained from my earliest youth—
Now let me show it!

I know how men despise
Souls, cold and cruel;
Honor's a thing to prize—
Life's fairest jewel—
I know what's falsely gained
Has no joy in it,
I have been truly trained
Fit for each minute.

Lord, they have told me all,
Told and repeated;
Onto them shame shall fall
Once they have cheated;
I have been taught the way
At school desk and altar,
Why should I then today
Fail them or falter?

They have not let me grow
Blind to life's beauty;
Here without doubt I know
What is my duty;
Let me then walk the way
Free from complaining,
Living this little day
True to my training.

certificate stating that a child has been vaccinated is not sufficient. The vaccination physician must certify that an examination of the child made not less than eight days after vaccination disclosed a vaccination scar, or cicatrix, indicating a successful vaccination. If this vaccination cicatrix is not in evidence, the physician cannot legally certify, and the child must be revaccinated.

Use Proper Forms

The supreme court has ruled that it is obligatory to use the vaccination certificate forms prescribed by the state department of health. These forms are furnished free of charge to all physicians practicing in the second class townships, and any other form cannot legally be accepted by the teacher or principal.

Citing the law, it is also explained that teachers may not accept certificates issued by the family physician or school medical inspectors exempting pupils from vaccination because of an alleged physical disability. Cases of actual physical disability for vaccination are rare. Generally speaking, any child that is well enough to go to school is a fit subject for vaccination. If physical disability is claimed, such cases must be passed upon by the county medical director or one of the officials above named.

School medical inspectors are directed by the secretary of health to verify the existence of the required vaccination cicatrix and pass upon the validity of vaccination certificates filed.

Bombing Activity

Simla, British India, July 30.—Four persons were killed and two others injured in successive crashes of four airplanes during bombing operations against Shabikhel, southeast of Rasmak, in the country of the Waziri tribesmen on the northwestern frontier of India Monday.

A formation of six machines was caught in a fog on the return journey. Two of them reached the home air-drome safely. One of them fell at Idak, none of the crew being injured. Another crashed at Rasmak, Officer I. F. Anderson and Passenger K. H. Aderson being killed.

Another crashed at Dulkan Point, with two fatalities, Officer E. Bell and Passenger Slack. A fourth machine crashed at Shawall Algad, and Squadron Leader A. J. Capel and Passenger A. Bell fell into the hands of the Waziri. They are believed to have been seriously injured.

Speech was given to the ordinary sort of man, whereby to communicate his mind, but to a wise man, whereby to conceal it.

JOSSELYN'S
WIFE

Copyright, by Kathleen Norris

"No, I suppose not," she conceded, unwillingly. "She would have to know!" For a moment she pondered, with a thoughtful face, then suddenly she brightened. "Joe!" she said, "why don't you go and tell George the whole story? He's so broadminded—and he loves you both—loves us all! If he wanted to take Harriet abroad again, to have some time elapse, at least he'd understand why you couldn't ask her now."

"I—I thought of that!" Joe said, somewhat sharing her confidence.

"Perhaps he'd think it best never to tell Harriet at all," Ellen mused, half aloud. "There must be thousands of men who never tell their wives something like that."

"Wouldn't you mind that?" Joe asked, giving her a shrewd glance.

"I? Oh, I don't know. But, Joe," his sister protested quickly. "It's all wrong, anyway. Whatever we decide, someone's going to be unhappy!" And she fell to thinking, her mind still shocked and confused, her breath coming fast. She felt the utter tenacity of the situation; it might mean Joe's misery or happiness for life.

"Joe, dear, I'm sorry!" she said suddenly, coming to his side to lay her arm about his shoulder. "I think I'm sorrier than I ever was before in my life. I wish it might never have been, Joe! I'm sorry for this other girl, too; but there's no way of saving her, any way. It's the one thing women can't do, and no matter how hard you try to patch it up, women have got to pay the full price. If she grew up in the village, she must have known what she was throwing away. Dearest boy, I hope I'm advising you rightly. But I think you must do what's best for Harriet. Now, she loves you, and you and George must decide how much she shall know. I think he'll forgive you. Men—men feel differently from women about that!"

"Just telling you has made me feel happier than I have for weeks, Ellen!" he said with a long boyish breath of relief. She kissed him, in her grave, motherly fashion, on the forehead, and sighed deeply, with her arms still locked about his neck.

"Will you look at the lovers?" Lillian's good-humored voice said, from the doorway. She and Gibbs were standing there, Gibbs with impatient and disapproving eyes. But Ellen was too full of the thought of Joe's tragedy to notice him.

"I've been hearing Joe's confession!" she said, nervously smiling.

"And I feel as lighthearted as what's-her-name walking home beneath the murmuring pines and the hemlocks!" Joe said.

CHAPTER VIII

The first heavy rainstorm of the season came early in November, upon a certain Wednesday afternoon. Indian summer was all over now, autumn was gone with its blaze of leaves. Branches about the "Villino dell'Orto" were bare, and the earth under them was packed with the sodden masses that had been a glory of red and gold a few weeks before. In the still, thin air, smoke from wood and leaf fires rose like incense over Wheatley Hills, the mornings were darker, and now for several days the air had been cold, and the sky hung low and dark. Wakening on this particular morning, Ellen, whose constant vigils were beginning to tell upon her health, said to herself wearily that it would be Thanksgiving in two weeks, and wondered where the day would find her. Aunt Elsie had suggested that she and Tommy come to Port Washington for the noonday dinner, going back to Wheatley Hills for the more formal event of the evening. Gibbs, when she mentioned this morning, approved the idea, saying that he wanted her to do what pleased her best, and he knew that she would really prefer the home day to the long, five-hour strain of "Parsifal," to which he and his father and Lillian meant to go, at the Metropolitan. Ellen's face darkened visibly.

"But if you prefer the opera, why, come with us!" Gibbs hastened to say, politely.

His wife did not answer. She did not believe his father, who was not very well, would go to the opera. He had expressed a positive dislike for German opera. But Gibbs would buy a third seat, and on Thanksgiving morning there would be the usual hideous pretense of his and Lillian's regret, their offer to give the whole thing up, their departure together in the car.

But there was nothing to say. She was dressed now, and Tommy had come leaping into the room, spilling a box of tucks as he came, and shouting gaily that Lizzie said it—felt—like

Detroit, Mich.—The A's lost yesterday, 4 to 3, breaking even on the series. This final game, like two others of the series, was decided in the eleventh inning.

A very pleasant ice cream party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Spangler, of Gettysburg Route 2, last Wednesday evening. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. vented Detroit from doing better than playing to a tie score for nine innings and then, in the eleventh, the support that had been so spectacular for ten innings wavered for an instant, just long enough to give Detroit the winning run.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Cincinnati won three of five in the series with Brooklyn by taking the last game Tuesday, 12 to 2. Roberts was knocked out of the box in the fourth inning by three hits for four runs, including Walker's homer with one on. Duncan hit a homer off Doak in the ninth with one on, and Walker followed with his second homer. Mitchell hit a homer for Brooklyn. Eddie Roush, Cincinnati outfielder, left the team Tuesday for a visit to Rochester to have his left arm treated. Catcher Ivy Wingo left the Cincinnati team to visit his father, who is dangerously ill at LaCrosse, Georgia.

Chicago.—The winning streak of Pitcher Hollis Thurston, which had run for ten consecutive games, was broken when New York defeated Chicago, 9 to 4, in the final game of the series. Thurston's record was saved last Saturday, when the Yankees drove him off the mound, but lost the game because of a ninth-inning White rally.

Boston.—Kremer held Boston to three hits yesterday and Pittsburgh defeated the Braves, 8 to 1. Boston's single run was forced over by Kremer in the third, when he gave four bases on balls. Marty Shay, bought from Worcester, played second base for Boston. The hitting of Cuyler and Traynor featured the game.

St. Louis.—Davis outpitched Murray Tuesday and the Browns defeated the Boston Red Sox, 3 to 0, thus evening the series.

Manager George Sisler accounted for all three runs. Sisler's homer in the fourth inning, his ninth of the season, brought in Evans ahead of him, and his sacrifice in the sixth scored Davis.

New York.—Arthur Nehf's all-around play was a feature in New York's victory over St. Louis here yesterday, 5 to 2.

The Giants won the series three games to two.

Philadelphia.—A mental lapse in the sixth inning cost the Phillies the final game with the Cubs at Broad and Huntingdon streets Tuesday afternoon. Chicago won, 4 to 3, halving the four-game series.

Defies Age By Using Ordinary Buttermilk to Beautify Complexion

This Pretty Girl Tells Druggists Not to Take Anyone's Money Unless This Delightful New Vanishing Cream Shows a Decided Improvement.

Buttermilk Cream creates beauty almost like magic. The most wonderful thing about it is the fact that whilst it turns the dull, most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough hands or arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

No matter whether you are troubled with poor complexion, wrinkles, puffiness around the eyes, freckles, crows feet or lines around the mouth, ugly finger nails, or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you will find that any or all of these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of Howard's Buttermilk
